Excerpt: “This software takes RCA beyond traditional fishbone diagrams to include multiple cause charts (ranging from a few to hundreds of causes...), a nice desktop management and workflow system, a standardized and easy-to-follow reporting process, and powerful data-mining abilities. Key features include collaboration and workflow management, and the common cause report. This kind of software has replaced the tedious days of creating fishbone diagrams in Excel. ...it [used to] take four to five people significant time to investigate common themes between events. Now, Causelink has placed that power into one person’s hands, making it easier to address repeat systemic problems. In total, this software really takes traditional RCA and significantly extends its efficiency and effectiveness.”
